

A MESSAGE TO INDEPENDENT THINKERS

When YOU say:

I'm not political Politics is boring
Politicians are all alike
Partisanship is turning me off
My vote doesn't really count anyway

HERE's what happens:

Hundreds of thousands of Americans die needlessly in a pandemic because political leaders in America refused to take preventive action.

Thousands of Ukrainian civilians are butchered by Russian missiles and soldiers because American political leaders praised and supported the dictator.

Dozens of children are gunned down at school every year—by Americans because their political leaders refuse to shut down the traffic in fast-kill weapons.

A mob of Americans urging the murder of legislators invades the Capitol and three Arizona representatives publicly approve the mob's "motive".

American voters elect a president who calls white supremacists "good people" and publicly boasts that he gropes women and after he is voted out of office he and his supporters call it a "fraud" and promote violent action against the government.

These political leaders gain power from an intolerant, violent minority of eligible voters because too many of the eligible majority just don't pay attention.

This situation didn't come out of nowhere. It's been building up for decades. Is this really the country you wanted to live in? Is this what you want for the next generation of Americans?

Politics is like oral hygiene: you ought to be practicing it every day.
